PRICE THREE CENTS

PROPERTY AT PARK TO BE PROTECTED

Three Extra Officers With Full Police Power Sworn in by Mayor For Duty There.

ORDER WILL BE MAINTAINED

Complaints Made That Some Equipment at Playground Has Been Molested Recently.

"Property at Shields park will be fully protected and order will be maintained there at all times.

This was the declaration today of C. W. Burkart, city mayor, in commenting on the action of the park board in posting signing serving notice that public property on the grounds must not be molested. Since the park opened for the season several complaints have been made to the park board and the city officials that some of the older boys have interfered with the games of the children and that in a few instances property has been molested and damaged.

Mayor Burkart made it quite clear that the playground equipment is placed in the park for the use of small children and that older boys will not be permitted to interfere with the games there. It has been reported that baseball games by small boys have been broken up by larger boys. There has been some interference with boys and girls who have attempted to use the swings, it is reported, and also with other games arranged at the grounds.

Mayor Burkart stated that he had sworn in John Van DeWalle, owner of the park concessions, and Henry Brinkman, playground custodian, as officers of the law with full police authority. They will see that the rules of the park board are enforced and notice is given that prosecutions will follow violations. The custodian of the swimming pool will also be sworn in as a special officer, it is stated. Three officers will then be on the grounds during the hours the park is open to the public.

Announcement is made that better facilities for parking automobiles will be provided this summer. Motorists, it is said, may park their machines near the Seventh street entrance with the assurance that they will not be molested. Special attention will be given to the protection of the automobiles.

The crowds visiting Shields Park since it was formally opened for the season have been larger than ever before and the park board believes that the attendance during the summer will be very large. The directors are glad that the park is to be more popular than in the past but at the same time realize that proper attention must be given to rules of order which must apply to all visitors. Every one has the same rights at the park and the officers will not permit one individual to infringe upon the rights of another.

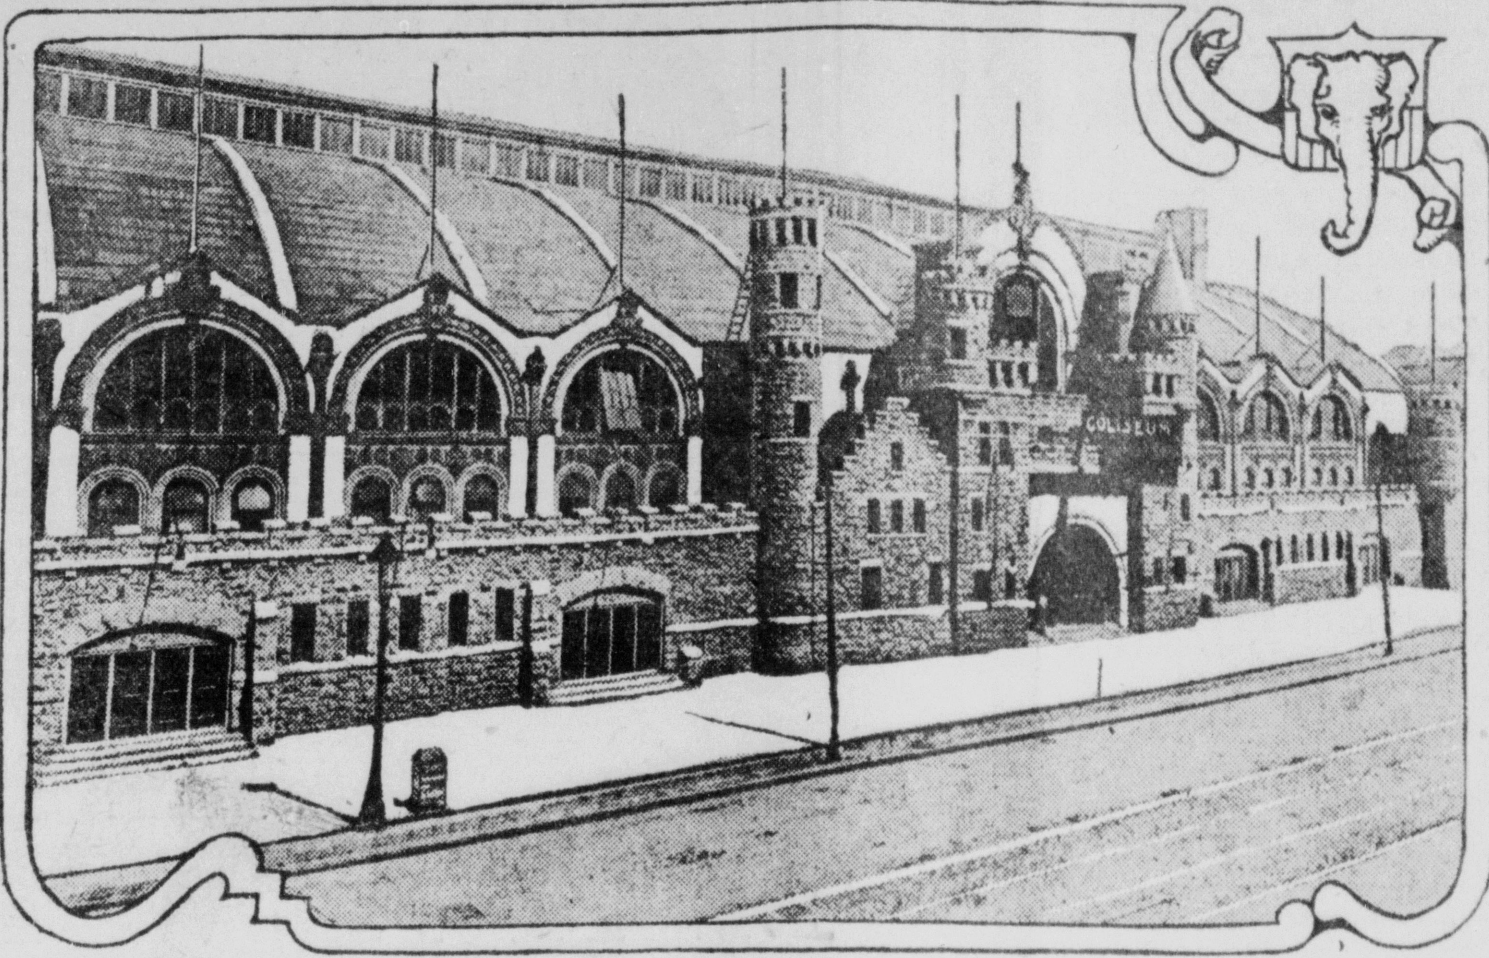

FLAMES REACH CEILING IN VULCANIZING SHOP

Quick Work in Smothering Flames Prevents Bad Fire in Speckner's Tire Shop.

The vulcanizing shop owned by Andrew Speckner, in the Kessler building, Chestnut and Third streets, was threatened by fire this afternoon when gasoline from a tank on a vulcanizing machine ignited and spread over a large portion of the floor. He was working on the machine and dropped an iron brace used to hold the tire in position. The brace hit the burner at the bottom of the machine, opening the gasoline feed pipe. The oil quickly ignited and spread on the floor. The flames reached the ceiling and for a time it appeared that the building would be damaged.

Mr. Speckner ran into Furnish's barber shop when he saw that the fire was getting beyond his control. Mr. Furnish sent in an alarm for the fire department. In the meantime people near the shop aided the owner in checking the flames which were extinguished a few minutes later. The loss is confined to the burner on the vulcanizer.

COMMITTEE WILL REPORT SHORTLY

Recommendation for Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Narrowed Down to Three Men.

INTERVIEWS BEING HELD

Local Representatives Spending Several Days in Northern Indiana on Important Mission.

The committee representing the Chamber of Commerce in the matter of selecting a secretary for that body will soon be ready to report, according to indications today. Applications from a number of commercial secretaries have been received and each has been duly considered. References filed by the applicants have been investigated and additional information about the qualifications of each man has been obtained from various sources.

It was stated authoritatively today that the number of applicants seriously considered for the position has been narrowed down to three and it is believed that the final choice will be made from this group. It happens that two of the men, at least, are now employed in the northern part of the state and the secretarial committee decided to send representatives to their home communities and learn first hand just what they have done and are doing in the way of city building.

T. A. Mott, chairman of the secretarial committee, and J. Avis Hoadley, as members, were appointed as a sub-committee to make this trip. They left for the northern part of the state late yesterday and will probably spend two or three days picking up information which will be valuable to the entire committee.

As soon as the sub-committee reports the general committee is expected to form a report which will be forwarded to the Chamber of Commerce at a general meeting. While the secretarial committee does

TOMATO ACREAGE UNUSUALLY LARGE

Several Thousand Farmers in Jackson County to Tend Crops for Local Canneries.

$17 A TON IS GUARANTEED

Estimated that 4,000 Acres, Mostly in Small Tracts, Will be Devoted to Tomatoes.

The tomato industry in Jackson county has been steadily increasing in importance for several years and it is estimated that approximately four thousand acres will be devoted to this crop this year. This means that several thousand farmers will cultivate tracts which for the most part are small. The largest tract to be put in tomato plants by any individual probably will not exceed twenty acres while hundreds of smaller tracts ranging from a quarter of an acre to ten acres will be planted.

Practically all the plants will be set out this week and next. Some tracts have already been planted, but the work was delayed to some extent by the late spring. Most of the growers raise their own plants from seed which are sown in hot

CANDIDATES ARE HOLDING SUPPORT

No Evidence of Any Trading or Bargaining at Republican National Convention.

COLISEUM IS CROWDED

Framing of Platform Begins Immediately After The First Session.

Chicago, June 8.—As the crowds started flowing toward the Coliseum today for the first session of the Republican convention the situation with regard to the nomination remained wide open. No candidate could claim a commanding lead, no candidate would admit he had no chance. There was no early trading or bargaining, practically every man in the contest evidently believing he might win.

The opening day dawned with a threat of real heat and early demanding delegates and prospective spectators were carrying coats over their arms and hats in their hands, and collars began to wilt.

Long before the hour scheduled for calling the convention to order (11 a. m.) the throngs began flowing towards the coliseum. The suffrage pickets and Irish freedom workers were expected to begin operations early.

The work of putting the Republican platform on paper is to begin soon after the first session of the convention opens. Senator Watson, of Indiana, appeared today to have the edge over Ogdon Mills, of New York, in the contest for the chairmanship of the resolutions committee which will draft the platform.

The "big four" committees of the convention started operations today shortly after the session opened. The membership of each committee composed of one delegate from each state was virtually complete when the convention met as the result of the state caucuses.

LODGE CHEERED WHEN HE ASSAILS WILSON'S LEAGUE

G. O. P. BATTLE CRY SOUNDED BY LODGE

WILL HAYS GIVEN ROUSING OVATION

Temporary Chairman at National Convention Praises Party's Constructive Work.

WILSON REGIME CRITICIZED

Outlines Measure for Dealing With Living Costs—The League of Nations.

Coliseum, Chicago, Ill., June 8.—Redemption and reconstruction of the United States are the twin tasks to which the Republican party must pledge itself, declared Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, temporary chairman of the Republican national convention in his keynote speech opening the convention today.

In a bitter attack on President Wilson and all his supporters, Lodge declared that the primary effort of the Republicans in the campaign must be to remove from control or influence over the American government, "Mr. Wilson and his dynasty, his heirs and assigns or anybody that is his, anybody who with bent knee has served his purpose."

Scathing criticism of Wilson and his administration marked the entire speech.

After the country has "been redeemed," Lodge said, the work of post-war reconstruction must be pushed with vigor and intelligence. He paid tribute to what the Republican congress has done in this respect; outlined measures for dealing with the high cost of living; demanded a vigorous Mexican policy instead of watchful waiting; called on the party to stand by the Republican senators in the treaty fight and said the people would now choose between the Wilson plan and that of the senate; advised party harmony and opposed government ownership of public utilities.

"Great reductions in expenditures have been effected but we have been met with resistance in some of the departments and also by habits of waste backed by maladministration, by sacrifice of efficiency to political purposes, never so recklessly indulged in before, and in certain cases by an incompetency so marvellous that it cannot be due to nature but must be the result of art. Yet despite all these fettering conditions an amount of work has been done which in days of peace would have been considered remarkable but now passes almost unnoticed because great events have so crowded on each other's heels in the years of world war that the comprehension and appreciation of legislative accomplishment are well nigh lost."

After reviewing the constructive work of the Republican congress Lodge says:

"Some of the master minds of the Montreal, June 8.—Delegates to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor today were anxiously awaiting the results of their big political venture as the Republican national convention opened at Chicago.

The Republican convention is to be asked to endorse labor's program by Samuel Gompers who was speeding to Chicago to appear before the Republican platform committee at Chicago.

First Session of Republican Conclave Adjourns After Keynote Speech is Delivered.

ALL COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

Contest For Chairmanship of Resolutions Committee Between Watson and Mills Watched.

Chicago, June 8.—The Republican national convention's work of picking the Republican presidential candidate and building him a platform was in full swing this afternoon. The convention met shortly before noon, heard the keynote address of Senator Lodge, temporary chairman, appointed committees on rules, permanent organization, resolutions and credentials and adjourned.

The committees were to go to work immediately after lunch.

The committee on credentials went at once to the national committee room in the Coliseum to inspect the decisions of the national committee in the contests over seating of delegates and in all probability to approve them.

The resolutions committee, most important of all, which is frame the platform, was to meet at the Congress hotel. After the naming of the committees the convention adjourned to meet again at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning when the reports of some of the committees will be received.

As the delegates left the hall the band struck up "America" and they paused to sing.

Most of the first session was devoted to hearing the keynote speech of Senator Lodge, temporary chairman, who went carefully and in detail over the record of the Democratic administration, pointing out its mistakes and telling what should be done. There was nothing dramatic about his address. It was a calm, dignified exposition of facts as he saw them and the delegates listened as to a lecture. It was only when he had covered the domestic situation and began talking about the league of nations that real enthusiasm developed.

There was cheer after cheer as Lodge attacked the peace treaty and asked that the convention and the voters in November approve the action of the Republican senators in beating the Wilson league without reservations.

Will Hays, chairman of the national committee, received one of the greatest demonstrations of the day when he swung his gavel and called the convention to order. He was cheered for several minutes.

The personnel of all the committees had been decided upon in advance and lists of the names of members handed to the secretary of the convention by the chairman of each state delegation. It was believed that the chairmanship of the resolutions committee was still in doubt when the committee was named today as Mrs. Manley L. Fossee, of Minnesota, made the motion that the committee be appointed. It is customary for the delegates who will be chosen to make this motion. The chairmanship of the platform committee is in doubt, lying, it is understood, between Senator Watson, Indiana, and Ogdon Mills, of New York. As the delegates gathered for the first session of the convention they were picketed by militant suffragists who displayed banners accusing the Republican party of blocking suffrage and also by women workers for Herbert Hoover, who carried Hoover banners.

Once inside the coliseum, however, there was little excitement and ev-

THE BUDGET BILL.

The people of the United States who were sincere in their desire to see the business of this government placed on the sound basis of efficiency deeply regret that President Wilson has vetoed the budget bill. For twelve years congress has battled with this measure working and striving to formulate a bill that would meet the requirements of the national government. The congress just adjourned had perfected a bill which economists believed would meet the exigencies of the present financial situation. It was passed by both houses but was vetoed too late for the congress to take further action.

Men who have given years of practical work to government business estimated that the budget bill would save the people of the country hundreds of millions of dollars annually. If such a law were in effect it would be impossible for an administrative official to spend huge sums without value received. The finances of the United States would be handled in much the same manner that a well regulated business concern handles its money matters. Each department would know at the beginning of each fiscal year how much it would have available and for what purposes it would be expended. The high cost of government in this country is due very largely to loose management and inefficiency. If we are to remedy the situation and really place government affairs on a business basis we must first curtail useless expenses.

At the same time the President vetoed the budget bill he also vetoed a measure which would eliminate wartime boards and commissions. Scores of these bodies are still in existence, and their only purpose is to give profitable jobs to the "deserving." The tendency of the government to be "over commissioned" reached a climax during the days of the World War. Boards and commissions were created for any purpose without regard for their usefulness. And the public can rest assured that none of these employees worked for small wages. High salaries, light work and short hours made positions on these boards and commissions highly desirable.

Congress had hoped to reduce government expenses by millions of dollars next year through the budget system of handling public finances and by eliminating needless boards and commissions. President Wilson at the last moment before congress adjourned blocked both moves. The people will have to carry the enormous expense for a while longer. And in the face of these vetoes the President criticizes congress for not enacting new tax laws. A very large part of the responsibility for the high taxes we are forced to pay rests with the White House.

In view of the ruling of the county commissioners that township trustees are not entitled to compensation for serving as inspectors on election boards, it is not expected that many trustees will object to giving their jobs to someone else in November.

Rev. E. H. Eggers, of Seymour, and Wm. Miller, of Brownstown, have been chosen as delegates from Jackson county to represent the Lutheran churches, at the national convention to be held at Detroit June 16 to 26. There are six congregations in this county.

Robert McCord, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McCord, Brownstown, has gone to Indianapolis to accept a government job in the office of the chief clerk at the speedway.

Millions for a New Stomach

One of the greatest American millionaires said to his physician, "A million dollars, Doctor, spot cash and no grumbling, for a new stomach," and then the sick man groaned and turned away. All his wealth could not make him happy or contented, for happiness largely depends upon digestion. Without health where does happiness come in? After all the stomach plays a great part in everyday life. Without a healthy stomach and good digestion our blood is thin, watery and poor, our heart action is weak, our liver does not do its duty, and man is miserable and unhappy. Prevent disease by putting the house in order and strengthening the system against the germs of disease.

Dr. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., years ago understood diseases and their prevention, and he discovered certain roots and herbs which were nature's remedies, and succeeded in putting them up in a form that could be easily procured at the drug store (liquid or tablets). This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This discovery gives no false stimulation because it contains no alcohol or any narcotic. It helps digestion and the assimilation of such elements in the food as are required for the blood. It gives to the blood the food elements the tissues require. For over fifty years it has enjoyed the confidence of the American public. Try it now!

NEW PROCESS KEEPS FOOD INDEFINITELY

Revolutionizes Feeding of Troops in War Time.

NO CHANCE FOR PTOMAINES

Add Water and Boil, Dishes Resulting Are the Same as Fresh Products. Experts Say—French Commission Calls it a Remarkable Discovery—Tried Out in Our Army—Produce Meals With Speed of Prestidigitator.

Gone are the good old days when a woman is expected to spend four hours in a kitchen, wrestling with the problems of some new dish and struggling with the unintelligible jargon of the cookbook. No longer need a man wait in vain for his maternal hash, only to discover after a goodly interval that wife just couldn't put the old chopping machine together and there must be a piece missing, or something. All this is as dead as the dodo.

The resources of food specialists, dietitians, French chefs and medical men have been combined in a come-out-of-the-kitchen campaign for the housekeeper, enabling her to produce meals with almost, if not quite, the speed of the prestidigitator producing rabbits out of the traditional hat. Just add hot water and boil a few minutes is the story.

And cheap—well, here's an example of the cost. Uncle Sam figured that he could give his doughboys a full dish of vegetable soup and a fine ample portion of corned beef hash by using this new process instantaneous food, for the vast outlay of 3 cents per doughboy.

William Edward Fitch, late Major U. S. M. C., and M. D. in his own right, has devoted a lot of hard work to the new product. He will prepare a cup of clam broth, while the interested listener is trying to read the title of one of the doctor's works, "Dietotherapy, Chemistry of Digestion, Classification and Analysis of Foods. Complete in three volumes. Published with the permission of the Surgeon General of the Army," is part of the title. But the clam broth is ready.

Like Freshly Prepared Food.

First the major produced a manila envelope, something like the average worker's pay envelope—decidedly small. Opening it, he displayed about a tablespoonful of fragments of brownish, dried substances. This and a little water boiled for less than five minutes produce the clam broth. The investigator is asked to taste the substance which is strained off, and will find slices of clams, celery and other usual ingredients and nothing to indicate that they are any different from fresh food. If you should stop and read two titles, the major explains, the consequent lengthened time of boiling does not spoil the broth. If curiosity is aroused as to why it was necessary to have the surgeon general's permission, the answer is contained in the fact that about 150 pages of the work deal with army rations, food economics in the war, etc.

But to return to the clam broth. The major is inquiring how you like it. He is also saying that usually the chef prepares it, but that he has gone home. Honestly compels the admission that, chef or no chef, it has not seemed to suffer.

"Everything is retained," says the major, "food value, flavor, etc. The foods are put up in little cardboard cartons, or in paper envelopes. There are no tins and no glass. Moreover, no artificial preservatives are used, even the so-called most harmless ones. The package may be opened and part of the contents used. The balance may be set aside and used next week, next month or next year, and it will be as good as when first opened.

Food Products Keep Indefinitely.

"Here is some lamb stew, now," continues the dietary expert, placing on the table something resembling somewhat a section of brown nut candy. "It will keep indefinitely, if the mice will let it alone. I see one has been nibbling here at this end. This is very old, but all I would have to do is put it in water and let it boil for about twenty minutes and it would be a most appetizing stew. It has, combined with lamb, onions, potatoes, and other vegetables, also seasoning.

"The soups containing a quantity of vegetables can stand about fifteen minutes' boiling and the meat products twenty to twenty-five minutes. We already have twenty-seven clear soups, thirty-one creamed soups, twenty vegetable products, twenty fish products—fish cakes for instance—and twenty-five meat products. Corned beef hash, chicken hash, roast beef hash, lamb stew, codfish cakes, creamed fish, and lobster à la Newburg are included in the list of dishes prepared by the new process.

"It is not a dehydrating process and it bears no resemblance to the canning process. Botulism, of which one is hearing so much these days in connection with the fatal olive poisoning cases, and ptomaine poisoning, are both impossible with this process. The flavor is not lost as in canning. All the nutritive and palatable qualities of the fresh food are retained."

To the newlywed innocent of the art of cookery, the new instantaneous food is a boon. According to the major, it is all prepared the same way—it is just put in water. Soup is wet, so the water is saved. Corned beef hash is comparatively dry, so most of the water is allowed to evaporate passing off in the form of steam. If it is hubby's birthday, or time to ask for an Easter hat, wife may treat the hash to a little frying-up in a pan, making it a browned hash—but it isn't necessary at all.

"An important feature of this new process," according to its sponsors, "is that the fuel value and vitamin content of fresh foods is not lost or reduced."

"The necessity for vitamins in the dietary is admitted, and this feature is being emphasized in current medical literature.

"While little understood by the profession and still less, of course, by the general public," says Doctor Fitch, "vitamins, according to the consensus among research workers in this particular field, are of definite, organic, chemical composition easily destroyed by prolonged exposure to heat. Patient research into the subject has established the fact that they possess toxic properties and that, even in remarkably infinitesimal amounts, they relieve the symptoms of deficiency disease in both man and animals. Clinical experimentation has established the fact that when vitamins are deficient in the dietary the body suffers and there are soon developed symptoms of deficiency disease. Vitamins are essential for growth, development and the maintenance of life. Pellagra, beri-beri, scurvy and other deficiency diseases are to be controlled or prevented through the administration of the proper foods, containing the adequate vitamin content.

"The vitamin content of fresh foods is greatest just when the fresh vegetables or fruits reach their highest state of perfection and in meats when the animal or fowl reaches maturity and is well fed and physically fit. All vitamins originally come from the animal kingdom. The cow receives vitamins from the green grasses and cereal foods she ingests and excretes in her milk; the hen receives vitamins from cereal grains and green herbs and stores them in her flesh and in the eggs she lays. The heart necessary to sterilize milk or to sterilize fresh fruits, vegetables and meats in the canning process destroys the vitamin content.

Contrasted With Dehydration.

"Especially abroad, extensive experiments have been made with the dehydration process. Here is some of the foreign product," said Doctor Fitch, indicating a little box of dried food. "It is most attractive in color, but it must be soaked 12 hours, and boiled for more than three hours, and then meat and stock and seasoning added to make it a vegetable soup, and it has not been found possible to keep the worm out of it and preserve all the vitamin contents. Sufficient heat used in the process of drying destroys the vitamins. In the new process the food is not submitted to such great heat, or for so long, but the worm does not get in it because of the seasoning. The vitamin content is deficient in all dehydrated fruits and vegetables and in pickled and salted meats."

According to Doctor Fitch, cases of debility in any body of troops should at once direct attention to diet.

"No troops can be kept in condition indefinitely on canned foods alone," he said. "Tinned and preserved meats possess no antiscorbutic (antiscorbutic) value whatever. Frozen meat, while more valuable than preserved meat, must be considered inferior to freshly killed meat. It will be seen that views as to the value and effect of different foods have greatly changed in the last decade. Meat, considered at one time the best diet for making strong men, is shown to be inferior so far as vitamins are concerned to other foods once held in contempt by meat eaters. Vegetables of many kinds, when properly cooked, are not only more economical but more beneficial."

The report of J. Delpit of the French commission on the new process hails it as a remarkable discovery that will literally revolutionize the process of feeding troops in war time. The reduction in volume and the reduction in weight, the absolute unchangeability by cold, heat or cold water are in a

are aided by special steels

Brakes seem to be one of the overlooked features of a motor car. In a Maxwell they have had the extreme of attention.

For instance, a road engineer, in about 500,000 miles of experimental driving, has constantly tested and studied them.

That is why you can check the speed of a Maxwell in an instant and bring it to a standstill either by foot brake or hand brake.

Special steels in a Maxwell are largely responsible. They give it extra strength in wear and endurance, but they make the car light in weight.

Thus when you call on it to halt, the brakes are not required to "wrestle" with superfluous weight, and the momentum of the car is easily stopped.

These are steels made to Maxwell's own formulae. They equal, pound for pound, the steels in any car built. But no car has steels just like them.

In a large measure they contribute to Maxwell's growing prestige, as expressed in figures like these: nearly 400,000 now in use; and 100,000 more for the year 1920.

among the features which recommend it to the commission. The difficulty of incorporating fresh vegetable products in the diet of the soldier under all conditions is touched upon by M. Delpit. He considers that the new process making possible "the provisioning of soldiers with food products actually consisting of a great variety of soups and vegetables will alleviate his hard lot to a great extent and contribute to his well being." Hospitals at the front and behind the lines, he thinks, will find them almost equally valuable.

FRANCE BARS FOREIGNERS

None but Frenchmen May Enter Hotel and Restaurant Business.

By the provisions of a bill introduced in the French parliament by the government foreigners are absolutely barred from the hotel and restaurant business in France. The fact that many foreign hotels and restaurant owners were enemy agents during the war led to this step.

The bill also forbids participation by aliens in the customs transit or commission agency trade, information bureaus, employment agencies, munition factories, chemical works affecting national defense and the quarrying industries.

YANKEE ROUTS RUSSIAN FORCE

Leads Americans Who Capture an Armored Train.

WRITES OF HARD BATTLE

Outnumbered and With Odds Against Them the Yanks Gain the Victory—Under Pretense of Seeking Arms Russians Rob, Pillage and Kill Wherever They Please—To Get Medals.

Lieut. J. C. Steinel, son of John Steinel of Milwaukee, was in charge of the American soldiers who routed the Russian troops that attacked the Americans with their armored train some weeks ago. As a result he has been recommended for the distinguished service medal by his commanding officer.

Lieut. Steinel, who now is on his way home, writes as follows about the clash:

"A few days before we were attacked by the Russians in their armored car we had received orders to move to Vladivostok and thence to the Philippines. Being in box cars, this was not difficult, so we loaded up our belongings, filled up with wood to keep warm.

"The Russians had armored trains and we expected trouble with them some time or other. Under the excuse that they are looking for arms they rob, pillage and kill wherever they please.

Train Heavily Armed.

"This we would not permit in the American sector, and gave them several ultimatums to get out. They had their trains equipped with machine guns, grenades, rifles, one pounders and 3-inch guns, and all engines were protected with concrete reinforcement and loopholes to shoot from.

"They had passed us several times, but never made a move. But one night we were informed by our interpreter that the Russians in the neighborhood expected trouble. We increased the guard at the long bridge, also around the cars in which we live. At midnight an armored train came into the station opposite us. They began loading up with wood. I immediately ordered my men to get up, but kept them in the cars. I went to the station to see if anything unusual had occurred, but everything appeared quiet. I ordered my men to retire, but we doubled our guard. The other officer and myself had just begun to retire when the sergeant came in and reported that he thought the Russians meant business. In about two minutes, with most of our 35 men still asleep, the Russians opened fire on us with machine guns, rifles and grenades.

"Our men were ordered out at once and they got under the cars and returned the fire. It seemed hopeless against an armored train. Our sergeant was killed in a few minutes when he attempted to get out on the engine, but before he was knocked off he threw a hand grenade at the train, which helped to force the Russians to surrender. One of our corporals had both legs blown off. The Russian armored train stopped about fifty yards from our cars and for a few moments they gave us everything they had. But we kept after them in skirmish line fashion and soon they told us they were ready to surrender.

Plan to Burn Village.

"They admitted that they had been drinking and that they intended first to kill off all the Americans and then burn the village, as they claimed that a stock of arms and munitions were in this place.

"They had a crew of seven officers and seventy men, while we had two officers and thirty-five men. All we had were three automatic rifles, grenades and rifles, while they had eight machine guns, rifles for every man, a one-pounder, a three-inch gun and grenades.

"The big prize, besides the train, was the general who was in command of all their armored trains, and their captain.

"It was quite an exciting experience for 45 minutes and something I will never forget. All of our men have been recommended for distinguished service medals for their gallant attack against the armored train."

Let me assure you that we do not fear the comparison.

from diplomats, but it rests entirely upon naked force. In that way the peace is to be preserved and the nations freed from war by multiplying the opportunities for the use of force. Each individual nation is bound by Article X to go to war for the protection of the territorial integrity and the political independence of every other nation in the world at the time of signature; that is, for the protection of States some of which are not yet determined or established, for the protection of boundaries which no man can define.

We were to give such a guarantee and any of the countries in the League in the event of exterior aggression could have demanded our armed assistance, and our soldiers and sailors must then have gone forth at the command of foreign countries unless we shattered all hope of world peace by breaking a solemn moral obligation. The Republicans of the Senate, no matter what their future fate might be, were determined that the covenant containing that article unmodified should never be ratified. It became ever-day clearer to them that the alliance called a League of Nations, instead of being a guarantee for the world's peace, was a breeder of war and an enemy of peace. As we studied it—and a majority of Senators desired to have some League if possible which should be a genuine League of Peace—we found that it dragged us not only into every dispute and every war in Europe and in the rest of the world but that our soldiers and sailors might be forced to give their lives in quarrels not their own at the bidding of foreign Governments.

SOCIAL EVENTS

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

A called meeting of the business women and the women wage earners of this city was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. E. M. Eagleston, West Second street. Plans were discussed for the organization of the local chapter of the state organization of the Women's Commerce Association. Only women who support themselves are entitled to active membership but it was voted to allow former wage earners, whose time is now taken up with domestic work, to become associate members.

The organization meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 in the office of the Public Service Company, South Chestnut street. Miss Emma May, of Terre Haute, state president and president of the Terre Haute chapter, will attend the meeting and explain the purpose of the club. Officers will be elected and committees appointed to take up the work here. It is hoped the organization may be completed and the charter secured before the national convention, which will be held in Columbus, O., June 14 to 16.

Much enthusiasm was shown at the meeting Monday evening and it is hoped that a large number of charter members may be secured for the association. Each person who attended was pledged to secure at least one active member and as many associate members as possible. The first main goal to be undertaken is a business women's club house which may be used for holding meetings and as a home for the working girls.

A cordial invitation is extended to any woman interested to attend the meeting Thursday evening.

SHOWER.

Misses Gladys Lawell and Marie Brookhoff entertained with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at the latter's home, South Bill street, in honor of Miss Martha Doane, a bride-elect.

The decorations were carried out in a color scheme of green and white. Baskets of white roses were used on the dining room table and the room was lighted with pink and green candles. The ices were in moulds of rings, bells, shippers and brides and grooms. The place cards were miniature cupids and contained fortunes for each guest.

Miss Doane received a large number of gifts.

The guests included Misses Martha and Elizabeth Doane, Gracia Hanenchild, Ruth and Marie Pfaffenberger, Estella Ruddick, Edith Eastwood, Anna Holland Carter, Lorene Stanfield, Marie Gudgel, Lora Fleeberty, Mrs. Marion McIntyre and Miss Frieda Wieneke, of Fairview, Kans.

CHARIVARI.

A charivari was given Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pollert, Brown street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kastling, who were married Sunday.

About seventy-five attended. The evening was spent with singing, music and games, and a luncheon was served.

BALLOTING MAY BEGIN THURSDAY

Republican Convention Called to Order Today by Will Hays, National Chairman.

DAY OF ORGANIZATION WORK

Real Struggle of Candidates Will Begin After First Two Ballots Are Taken.

Chicago, June 8.—The business of choosing the Republican candidate for President of the United States was taken up here today.

The physical work of making the selection will be left to the 984 men and women constituting the delegates to the national convention. The real battles, as in every political gathering, will be fought in caucuses and secret meetings of small groups of recognized leaders, rather than on the floor of the convention hall.

The initial ballot was not expected to take place before Thursday, when it was believed that possibly two would be called for. According to general belief, these ballots would indicate little than was already known of the relative strength of the candidates. That might sufficient maneuvering and "trades" were looked for to provide a real "break" when balloting was resumed on the following day and, unless a deadlock developed, a choice would develop speedily.

Every indication pointed to Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood showing the greatest strength on the first ballots, with Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, second, and Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, third. Others who were scheduled to receive some votes are: Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, Gov. Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, Gov. William C. Sproul of Pennsylvania, Senator Philander C. Knox, of Pennsylvania, Herbert Hoover of California, Judge J. C. Pritchard of North California, Nicholas Murray Butler of New York, and Senator Robert LaFollette of Wisconsin. There was a possibility that the name of Gen. John J. Pershing might also be placed in nomination.

The first two days were to be given over to organization work, reports of committees and nominating speeches.

Will Hayes of Indiana, chairman of the Republican national committee, called the convention to order in the Coliseum at 11 a. m. The band which had been entertaining the delegates and visitors for some time then played the national anthem, after which the Rev. Charles E. Woodcock, of Louisville, pronounced the invocation.

After Lafayette B. Gleason, of New York, secretary of the convention, had read the call for the convention, Hays placed in nomination for the temporary chairmanship, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts.

Following the work of effecting a permanent organization and appointing committees, the convention adjourned until tomorrow, when committee reports were to be heard and nominating speeches made.

The delegates and their alternates were seated on the main floor of the Coliseum, grouped by states. Banked about them and in the enlarged galleries were the spectators. The speakers' stand was on a huge rostrum built across one end of the hall, another tier of visitors' seats behind it. Committeemen and convention officers sat in reserved spaces on each side of the speakers' stand. Immediately in front was the space allotted to the press. Below the rostrum were the stalls devoted to the work rooms of the newspapermen, committee rooms, medical staff and others whose work could not be accomplished on the main floor.

Headquarters of the organizations of the various candidates and party leaders were located in hotels as close to the Coliseum as possible.

Jackson County Loan and Trust Co.
SEYMOUR, INDIANA

Practically all available hotel space was reserved by delegates, convention officials, politicians, visitors and newspaper workers soon after the date and place of the convention was announced last spring.

Extra police were assigned to handle the extra crowds and traffic in the vicinity of the convention hall.

One notable feature of the gathering was the sprinkling of the fair sex throughout the delegate ranks, particularly in the section containing the alternates. This signal of the near-arrival of national woman suffrage drew comment from the leaders of other days.

The scene in the streets surrounding the Coliseum was almost as colorful as within the vast flag-draped auditorium itself. The moving, changing crowds, bright in holiday attire, the street hawkers with banners and noise-making devices were all peculiar to the great American institution—a National Political Convention.

The old Coliseum, which eight brief years ago witnessed the bolt of the Roosevelt hosts and four years ago Hughes' nomination, had changed little with the shifting of years. The old G. A. R. button was giving way to the World War insignia; the women were pushing aside the men, but the flags were draped, the bunting flying, the crowds smiling as of yore.

Then the band played the Star Spangled Banner, the crowd stood and the 1920 convention began to make history.

HAS BUILT BOAT OF PLASTER

Oregon Man Seems to Have Made Good on New Theory of Material for Vessels.

If boats can be made of concrete there seems no inherent reason why they cannot be made of plaster. In fact, an inventor in Portland, Ore., Mr. J. B. Lindberg, has actually made a plaster boat.

His boat is 15 feet long and weighs 400 pounds. Its sides are three-quarters of an inch thick, and very strong although only made of ordinary building plaster. The boat is cheaper than a wooden one, and the inventor believes it will last longer. Its advantage over a concrete craft is mainly that of lightness.

The construction is also much easier, Mr. Lindberg says, since the plaster requires an inner and an outer form to a much less extent than the concrete. In large part this lighter

Tropical Ubi.

The ubi, or imitation vanilla, is a curious tropical vegetable which is a more or less common product in most of the south sea islands. It grows up on poles or young trees or old brushwood something after the manner of the lima bean of the temperate zone, but more nearly resembles the true vanilla of the tropics. It is a prolific bearer and yields an edible bean which closely resembles the vanilla bean except for the strong aroma of the latter, and it is sometimes used as an adulterant of the vanilla—that is, when the valuable vanilla beans are bunched for shipment a few of the ubi may be slipped in. As the ubi is susceptible to the slightest frost its culture has not been attempted in the United States.

beds early in the spring. However, arrangements have been made by some growers to buy their plants and where this plan is followed co-operation is extended by the larger canneries.

The canning of tomatoes has become an important industry in this county in recent years. The Rider Packing Company operates six plants in Jackson and adjoining counties. The factories are located in Seymour, Medora, Freetown, Crothersville, Kurtz and Hayden, the last named being in Jennings county. The factory at Austin also contracts for some acreage in this county each year. Other plants at Brownstown, Vallonia and Surprise have a large acreage under contract.

While it is the general belief of some farmers that the cultivation of tomatoes for commercial purposes entails a great deal of work successful growers declare that the crop does not require work out of proportion to the revenue. The canneries have contracted with growers for a guaranteed price of $17 a ton delivered at the factory. Last year the guaranteed price was $14 a ton but was increased to $17 before the close of the season because of the unexpected condition of the market.

Growers declare that tomatoes are not only profitable but are beneficial to the ground. Much soil in various parts of the county which requires frequent cultivation has been brought to a much higher state of fertility by an extensive tending of tomatoes.

The size of the tracts of ground devoted to this crop depend largely upon the facilities of the grower for picking the tomatoes. Some difficulty has been experienced in a few localities in recent years in taking care of the crop when it is ready for the market and for this reason the grower usually makes arrangements for the picking and delivery to the factory before the contract is made.

The special committee has gone at its work in a systematic way and has acted with deliberation on each application. The committee had no favors to show and its purpose has been to select the best possible man for the place. It is understood that the appointment may be made so that the new secretary can assume his position here about the first of August.

Backed by Truth

You have heard people read an advertisement and then say, "I don't believe it".

Once upon a time they might have been right, for dishonest people have advertised. But there are two good reasons why practically all advertising today is honest.

One reason is that no good newspaper will print dishonest advertising.

The other reason is that experience has proven that dishonest advertising hurts the advertiser far more than it does the buyer of the goods advertised.

This fact is easy to understand. A person may be dishonest in a quiet, sneaky way for a long time and never actually be caught at it. But an advertisement is a combination agreement and guarantee.

A merchant or manufacturer inserts an advertisement in a paper. That advertisement carries certain statements and certain claims for the goods mentioned. To speak such statements and claims is one thing; but to print them, and sign your name to them, and to send this out for everyone to read, is giving the public a guarantee.

That's why it will pay you to read advertisements and buy advertised goods. Every advertisement is your guarantee of value.

Agricultural Notes

FARMERS NEED ADVERTISING SAME AS OTHER BUSINESS MEN

Many firms would be compelled to quit business in six months if they did not advertise. Farming is a business. Why should not farmers advertise the same as other business men? The farmer that advertises his produce is the one that sells it first.

Want ads are business getters and pay well if properly written. Many persons feature the want ads from farmers and farmers profit by them. There are right and wrong kinds of want ads. It is all in the way they are written.

How do you like this ad? "John Doe, Bluffton, Ind.—Two sows, one for sale, $125."

Compare it with the following:

"Two pure-bred registered Duroc-Jersey cows, two years old in May, both bred in April. No. 1 for sale at $100 and No. 2 for $125. Write quick for full particulars. John Doe, Bluffton, Ind."

Which ad will sell the sow?

An effective want ad tells what is for sale, includes a brief description, if livestock, the age, breeding and price. Many ads without the price and description fail because most people dislike to write for particulars.

The Angola Ice Cream company will pay all expenses of the boys. Fourteen of the 24 boys entered in the contest completed it.

Porter county livestock and dairymen are taking hold of boys' and girls' club work in a big way this year and two townships are going together to employ a club leader for this summer. The Holstein Breeders' Association has set aside $1,500 to finance members of the Holstein Calf Club. The Short-horn and swine breeders have made arrangements to accept notes for the other calves and pigs.

TROUBLES FROM MY AGE

Mrs. Baney tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her Through the Change of Middle Life.

Rochester, Ind.—"My troubles were from my age and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me wonderfully. I took doctor's medicine and other patent medicine but the Vegetable Compound has helped my nerves more than anything I have ever taken. I am thankful to the one who recommended it to me and will surely do my part in telling others what the medicine has done for me."

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness should be heeded by middle-aged women and let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carry them safely through this crisis as it did Mrs. Baney.

"I know what your plan is," Ogilvy interrupted. "Listen, now, to father's words of wisdom. Didn't you hear me tell that girl and her villainous avuncular relative last night that I had another ace up my kimono?"
Bryce nodded.
"That was not brag, old dear. I had the ace, and this morning I played it—wherefore in my heart there is that peace that passeth understanding—particularly since I have just had a telegram informing me that my ace took the odd trick."
"You will recall that from the very instant we decided to cut in that jump-crossing, we commenced to plan against interference by Pennington; in consequence we kept, or tried to keep, our decision a secret. "Now, one of the most delightful things I know about a court is that it is open to all men seeking justice—or injustice disguised as justice. Also there is a wise old saw to the effect that battles are won by the fellow who gets there first with the most men. The situation from the start was absurdly simple. If Pennington got to the district court first, we were lost!"
"You mean you got there first?" exclaimed Bryce.

"I did—by the very simple method of preparing to get there first in case anything slipped. Something did slip—last night! However, I was ready; so all I had to do was press the button, for as Omar Khayyam remarked: 'What shall it avail a man if he buyeth a padlock for his stable after his favorite stallion hath been lifted?' Several days ago, my boy, I wrote a long letter to our attorney in San Francisco explaining every detail of our predicament; the instant I received that temporary franchise from the city council, I mailed a certified copy of it to our attorney also. Then, in anticipation of our discovery by Pennington, I instructed the attorney to prepare the complaint and petition for a restraining order against Seth Pennington et al, and stand by to rush to the judge with it the instant he heard from me!"

"Well, about the time old Pennington started for San Francisco this morning, I had our attorney out of bed and on the long-distance telephone; at nine o'clock this morning he appeared in the United States district court; at nine-fifteen the judge signed a restraining order forbidding our enemies to interfere with us in the exercise of a right legally granted us by the city of Sequoia, and at nine-thirty a deputy United States marshal started in an automobile for Sequoia, via the overland route. He will arrive late tomorrow night, and on Sunday we will get that locomotive out of our way and install our crossing."

"And Pennington?"
"Ah, the poor Pennington! Mon pauvre Seth!" Buck sighed contently. "He will be just twenty-four hours late."
"You old he-fox!" Bryce murmured. "You wicked, wicked man!"
Buck Ogilvy lifted his lapel and sniffed luxuriously at his white cravat, the while a thin little smile played around the corners of his luminous mouth. "Ah," he murmured presently, "life's pretty sweet, isn't it?"

CHAPTER XVII.

Events followed each other with refreshing rapidity. While the crew of the big locomotive on the crossing busied themselves getting up steam, Sexton and Jules Rondeau toiled at the loading of the discarded boiler and heavy castings aboard two flat cars. By utilizing the steel derrick on the company's wrecking car, this task was completed by noon, and after luncheon the mogul backed up the main line past the switch into the Laguna Grande yards; whereupon the switch engine kicked the two flat cars and the wrecking car out of the yard and down to the crossing, where the obstructions were promptly unloaded. The police watched the operation with alert interest but forebore to interfere in this high-handed closing of a public thoroughfare.

To Sexton's annoyance and secret apprehension, Bryce Cardigan and Buck Ogilvy promptly appeared on the scene, both very cheerful and lavish with expert advice as to the best method of expediting the job in hand. To Bryce's surprise Jules Rondeau appeared to take secret enjoyment of this good-natured chaffing of the Laguna Grande manager. Occasionally he eyed Bryce curiously but without animus, and presently he flashed the latter a lightning wink, as if to say: "What a fool Sexton is to oppose you!"

"Well, Rondeau," Bryce hailed the woods-boss cheerfully, "I see you have quite recovered from that working over I gave you some time ago. No hard feelings, I trust. I shouldn't care to have that job to do over again. You're a tough one."

"By gar, she don't pay for have hard feelings wiz you, m'sieur," Rondeau answered bluntly. "We have one fine fight, but"—he shrugged—"I don't want some more." He approached Bryce and lowered his voice. "For one month I am no good all ze tam. We don't fight some more, m'sieur. And I have feel ashame for dose Black Minorca feller. Always wiz him eet is ze knife or ze club—and now eet is ze rifle, Cochon! When I fight, I fight wiz what le bon Dieu give me."

"You appear to have a certain code, after all," Bryce laughed. "I am inclined to like you for it. You're sporty."

in your way, you tremendous scoundrel!"

"Mebbeso," Rondeau suggested hopelessly, "M'sieur likes me for woods-boss?"

"Why, what's the matter with Pennington? Is he tired of you?"

The color mounted slowly to the woods-boss's swarthy cheek. "Mademoiselle Summar, he's tell me pretty soon he's goin' be boss of Laguna Grande an' stop all thees fight. An' w'en Mademoiselle, he is in the saddle, good-bye Jules Rondeau. Thees country—I like him. I feel sad, M'sieur, to leave dose beeg trees." He paused, looking rather wistfully at Bryce. "I am fine woods-boss for somebody," he suggested hopefully.

"You think Miss Sumner dislikes you then, Rondeau?"

"I don't theenk, I know." He sighed; his huge body seemed to droop. "I am out of zee good luck now," he murmured bitterly. "Everybody, she hate Jules Rondeau." Again he sighed. "Dose beeg trees! In Quebec we have none. In zee woods, M'sieur, I feel—here!" And he laid his great calloused, hairy hand over his heart. "When I cut your beeg trees, M'sieur, I feel like hell."

"That infernal gorilla of a man is a poet," Buck Ogilvy declared. "I'd think twice before I let him get out of the country, Bryce."

"Whose salt he eats, his song he sings," quoth Bryce. "I forgive you, Rondeau, and when I need a woods-boss like you, I'll send for you."

At eleven o'clock Saturday night the deputy United States marshal arrived in Sequoia. Upon the advice of Buck Ogilvy, however, he made no attempt at service that night, notwithstanding the fact that Jules Rondeau and his bullies still guarded the crossing. At eight o'clock Sunday morning, however, Bryce Cardigan drove him down to the crossing. Buck Ogilvy was already there with his men, superintending erection of a huge derrick close to the heap of obstructions placed on the crossing. Sexton was watching him uneasily, and flushed as Ogilvy pointed him out to the marshal.

"There's your meat, marshal," he announced. The marshal approached and extended toward Sexton a copy of the restraining order. The latter struck it aside and refused to accept it—whereupon the deputy marshal tapped him on the shoulder with it. "Tag! You're out of the game, my friend," he said pleasantly.

As the document fluttered to Sexton's feet, the latter turned to Jules Rondeau. "I can no longer take charge here, Rondeau," he explained. "I am forbidden to interfere."

"Jules Rondeau can do ze job," the woods-boss replied easily. "Ze law, she have not restrain' me. I guess, mebbeso, you don't take dose theengs away, eh, M'sieur Cardigan. Myself, I lak ze."

The deputy marshal handed Rondeau a paper, at the same time showing his badge. "You're out, too, my friend," he laughed. "Don't be foolish to try to buck the law. If you do, I shall have to place a nice little pair of handcuffs on you and throw you in jail—and if you resist arrest, I shall have to shoot you. I advise you to."

these little restraining orders for every able-bodied man in the Laguna Grande Lumber company's employ—thanks to Mr. Ogilvy's foresight; so it is useless to try to beat this game on a technicality."

Sexton, who still lingered, made a gesture of surrender. "Dismiss your crew, Rondeau," he ordered. "We're whipped to a frazzle."

A gleam of pleasure, not unminged with triumph, lighted the dark eyes of the French-Canadian. "I tol' M'sieur Sexton she cannot fight M'sieur Cardigan and w'n," he said simply. "Now mebbe he believe that Jules Rondeau know something."

"Shut up," Sexton roared petulantly. Rondeau shrugged contemptuously, turned, and with a sweep of his great arm indicated to his men that they were to go; then, without a backward glance to see that they followed, the woods boss strode away in the direction of the Laguna Grande mill. Arrived at the mill office, he entered, took down the telephone, and called up Shirley Sumner.

"Mademoiselle," he said, "Jules Rondeau speaks to you. I have for you zee good news. Bryce Cardigan, she puts in the crossing today. One man of the law she comes from San Francisco with papers, and M'sieur Sexton say to me: 'Rondeau, we are whip. Deemess your men.' So I have deemess doze men, and now I deemess myself. And without further ado he hung up.

Don't Prod Your Liver to Action

NR Overcomes Biliousness, Constipation, Sick Headache, Quickly, No Griping or Pain. Guaranteed.

The organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the stomach, liver and bowels—are closely allied, and the proper action of any of these organs is largely dependent upon the correct functioning of all the others.

"Whipping" your liver into action with calomel or forcing your bowels with irritating laxatives or strong cathartics is a great mistake. A better, safer plan is strengthening and toning the whole digestive and eliminative system with Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), which not only brings immediate relief, but genuine and lasting benefit. It acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys, improves digestion and assimilation, overcomes biliousness, corrects constipation and quickly relieves sick headache.

Get your system thoroughly cleansed and purified for once; stomach, liver and bowels working together in vigorous harmony, and you will not have to take medicine every day—just take one NR Tablet occasionally to keep your system in good condition and always feel your best. Remember it is easier and cheaper to keep well than it is to get well.

Get a 25c box and try it with the understanding that it must give you greater relief and benefit than any bowel or liver medicine you ever used or no pay. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Jules advanced until he towered directly over the manager. "I tol' M'sieur I would have my time," he repeated once more. "Is M'sieur deaf in ze ears?" He raised his right hand, much as a bear raises its paw; his blunt fingers worked a little and there was a smoldering fire in his dark eyes.

WORKS HARD TO AVERT FLU EPIDEMIC

Government and City Health Officials Warn People to Keep Clean.

Stay Away from People with Coughs and Colds.

"Avoid crowds if you want to avoid influenza," says Association for Improving the Conditions of New York.

Keep your hands clean, drink plenty of fresh water; sleep with windows open; eat three uniform meals a day including a good breakfast.

People who have catarrh or frequent colds invite influenza, declares a prominent Kentucky druggist.

The membrane of the throat and nose is raw, sore and tender, and makes a lovely abiding place for germs to thrive and multiply.

He advises an inexpensive home-made remedy that will bring relief in less than a day and will stop all discharge and soothe and heal the inflamed membrane in a few days.

Thousands are making this beneficial remedy at home and anyone who has catarrh or a cold can do the same.

Pour three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle, then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled.

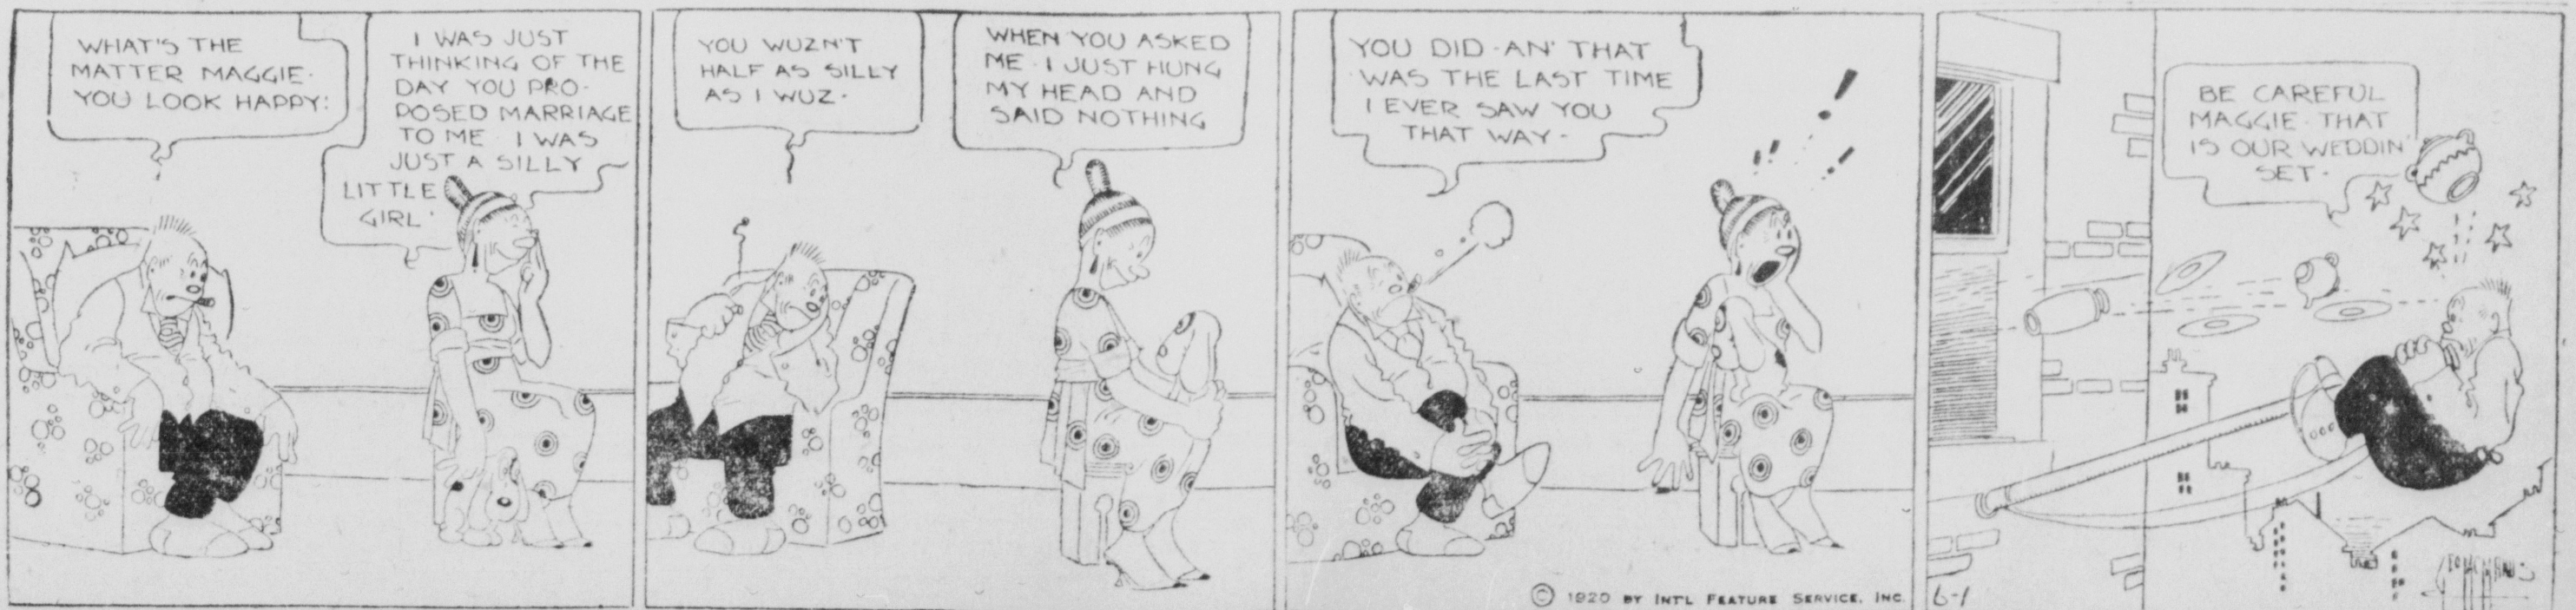

Gargle the throat as directed and snuff or spray the liquid into the nostrils twice daily. It's a simple way to get rid of cold and catarrh and keeps the nasal passage and throat clean and healthy.

Nearly all druggists dispense Mentholized Arcine in vials containing exactly three-quarters of an ounce, which is all you need to make a pint of this healthful medicine.

HISTORY OF DRY GOODS BUSINESS GIVEN IN SPEECH

Nathan Kaufman Makes Interesting Address at Regular Meeting of Rotary Club.

Nathan Kaufman, of the Gold Mine department store, gave an interesting address at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club today. He outlined the origin of the dry goods business and explained its growth and development. In his speech he gave the Rotarians much valuable information. The speech was the third of a series of business talks by the Rotarians.

L. C. Griffiths reported at the meeting that at least two Rotarians and their wives would attend the national Rotary meeting in Atlantic City. An assessment of $1 a member was made to create a fund with which Indiana will be advertised at the national meeting.

Walter Voss asked that the Rotarians aid in making the floral parade for the Independence Day celebration a success. He said that cards had been sent to motorists asking that they participate in the parade and he asked that the replies be filed at once.

Training the Women Life Savers

"All heave together," is the command of Miss Alice Gaddman and her sturdy Red Cross lifeguards at San Francisco, as they put their boat in the water for the spring practice. The lifeguards are brushing up their training for the busy season at the beaches.

ROBERT AMES BENNET

A product of the West and one of that school of writers of whom there are not enough, who treat of their environment as a civilized community, has produced a number of clever novels. Readers will remember his "Into the Primitive," "The Shogun's Daughter," "The Forest Maiden," "The Quarterbreed" and others which have had a wide circulation. In

The Man Who Wasn't Himself

selected for serial reproduction in this paper, you will find a story differing from anything you have read before. It strikes a psychic note, but is not weird. The mystery concerning the "man" will keep you guessing. It deals with cultivated, representative types of the day and is clean, diverting and altogether charming.

DON'T MISS IT!

preparation for the ball grounds was progressing and he asked for the moral and financial support of the Rotarians. He stated that B. R.
McBride and W. K. O'Neil, engineers in charge of the local district of the state highway commission, has agreed to supervise the grading of the baseball park without charge.
The offer of Mr. O'Neil and Mr. Mc-Bride means that the work will be done in the best possible manner.

The finance committee has reported that additional stock has been subscribed and that the total amount will likely be pledged within a few days. Sufficient money has already been made available to insure the establishment of the park, although the construction of a grand stand and bleachers will depend upon future subscriptions. The soliciting committee expects to push its part of the work as rapidly as possible.

Officers of the Athletic Association are receiving much encouragement and have every reason to believe that the movement will be a success. Business men are behind the plans in an enthusiastic manner and there appears to be no question but that loyal support will be given the team when it is once organized and in action.

THEODORE SHARP DEAD

Minister. Known Here. Expires at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Theodore Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Sharp, of Franklin, died Saturday at the St. Vincent's hospital, Indianapolis, after a three months' illness with typhoid fever and abscess. He was taken to the hospital more than a month ago.
Mr. Sharp was twenty-three years of age. He spent the summer of 1917, in this city, and had charge of the Daily Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist church. He will be remembered by a number of Seymour people. Mr. Sharp attended Franklin college and was pastor of the Marshall and Cumberland Baptist churches, near Franklin. Besides his parents, he is survived by a widow. The funeral services were held this afternoon at the Franklin Baptist church.

REJOICES DAUGHTER CAN RESUME STUDIES

"Everything my little 12-year-old girl ate distressed her; even a glass of water would cause her to belch gas and she was unable to go to school for nearly a year. I bought her a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy, and since taking it she is eating us out of house and home and is attending school again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver, and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. All druggists.
